Business Spotlight

Duchin Productions
founder Jay Duchin

Client firm Duchin Productions, 100 Cummings Center, Suite 246-G, first made its home at Cummings Center in 2008.

Beverly native Jay Duchin, founder of Duchin Productions, originally had dreams of becoming a mechanical engineer. When his algebra courses proved more difficult than expected, he changed career directions. That change did not stop Jay from doing what he loved: innovating and creating.

Duchin Productions specializes in creating videos for clients that include small businesses, non-profits, and large corporations that span virtually every industry. Jay particularly enjoys his work with leading companies in the science and technology sectors. Services are available in the studio or on site and include broadcast television, corporate sales and marketing, human resources training/education, product launches, webcasts, podcasting and On-Demand video, and more.

Duchin Productions is committed to helping other businesses to thrive. It supports numerous charities, and Jay serves as a trustee of Children's Center for Communications/Beverly School for the Deaf, which is a neighbor of Cummings Center.
