Friendly Reminder

Smiles Breed Smiles Although Cummings Center has more than 500 client firms, it is our hope that everyone sees it as a welcoming community. You may notice that Cummings Properties employees greet clients in passing. Little things such as saying good morning, holding the door for the next person, introducing yourself to a new neighbor, or letting people off the elevator before you enter can help make Cummings Center a friendlier place and a closer-knit community.

Elliott Landing

Elliott Landing's home of the week is Suite 506, a two-bedroom, two-bath luxury home that features a sun-splashed living area, two walk-in closets, and a spacious master suite with designer-curated finishes. Business Spotlight

Express Yourself is a nonprofit organization that provides art immersion therapy for at-risk youth from across Massachusetts, using art, music, and dance. Each year, co-directors Paula Conrad and Stan Strickland gather with Express Yourself staff to discuss a theme for the upcoming year. That theme is carried throughout the year, culminating in the annual May performance, which allows the youth to highlight the work they have done. The youth collaborate with many performance artists, including members of the STOMP national tour, local musicians and choirs, African drummers, and more. This year's SOUL performance is May 25, at 7 PM, at Boch Center's Wang Theatre in Boston. The performance is free and open to all.

After joining the Cummings Center community in 2014, Express Yourself created an art leasing program know as Art Express, which brings youth-created artwork to businesses. Some of this artwork can be found in the hallways of 100 Cummings Center. For more information on Express Yourself, the performance, or Art Express, visit the website, or call 978-927-8600.
