Noteworthy News

Window Washing: Do not be alarmed if you look out your office window and see someone looking back, squeegee in hand. Next week, Cummings Properties' window cleaning team will begin the annual task of cleaning the exterior of each on-site window. Windows at the Dunham Road campus will be washed on Tuesday, July 18, and Cummings Center window washing will begin on Thursday, July 20 and continue through Friday, August 4.

Friendly Reminder

Plumbing Hint: Have you ever wondered why there sometimes is an odor emanating from the bathroom floor drain? The most common reason is that the "trap" in the floor drain has no water in it. Most upper-floor restrooms have floor drains designed to collect water in the event of a toilet overflow or leak. These drains are plumbed with a trap, which must have water inside it at all times in order to prevent sewer smells from escaping through the drain. Mopping pushes water into the drain and when done on a regular basis will typically prevent unpleasant smells. A more proactive measure to prevent the trap from drying up would be to occasionally pour a cup of water into the floor drain, sometimes adding an ounce or two of vegetable oil or mineral oil to keep the water from evaporating.
