Showcasing the curb appeal of Cummings Properties

Ferro Papilio

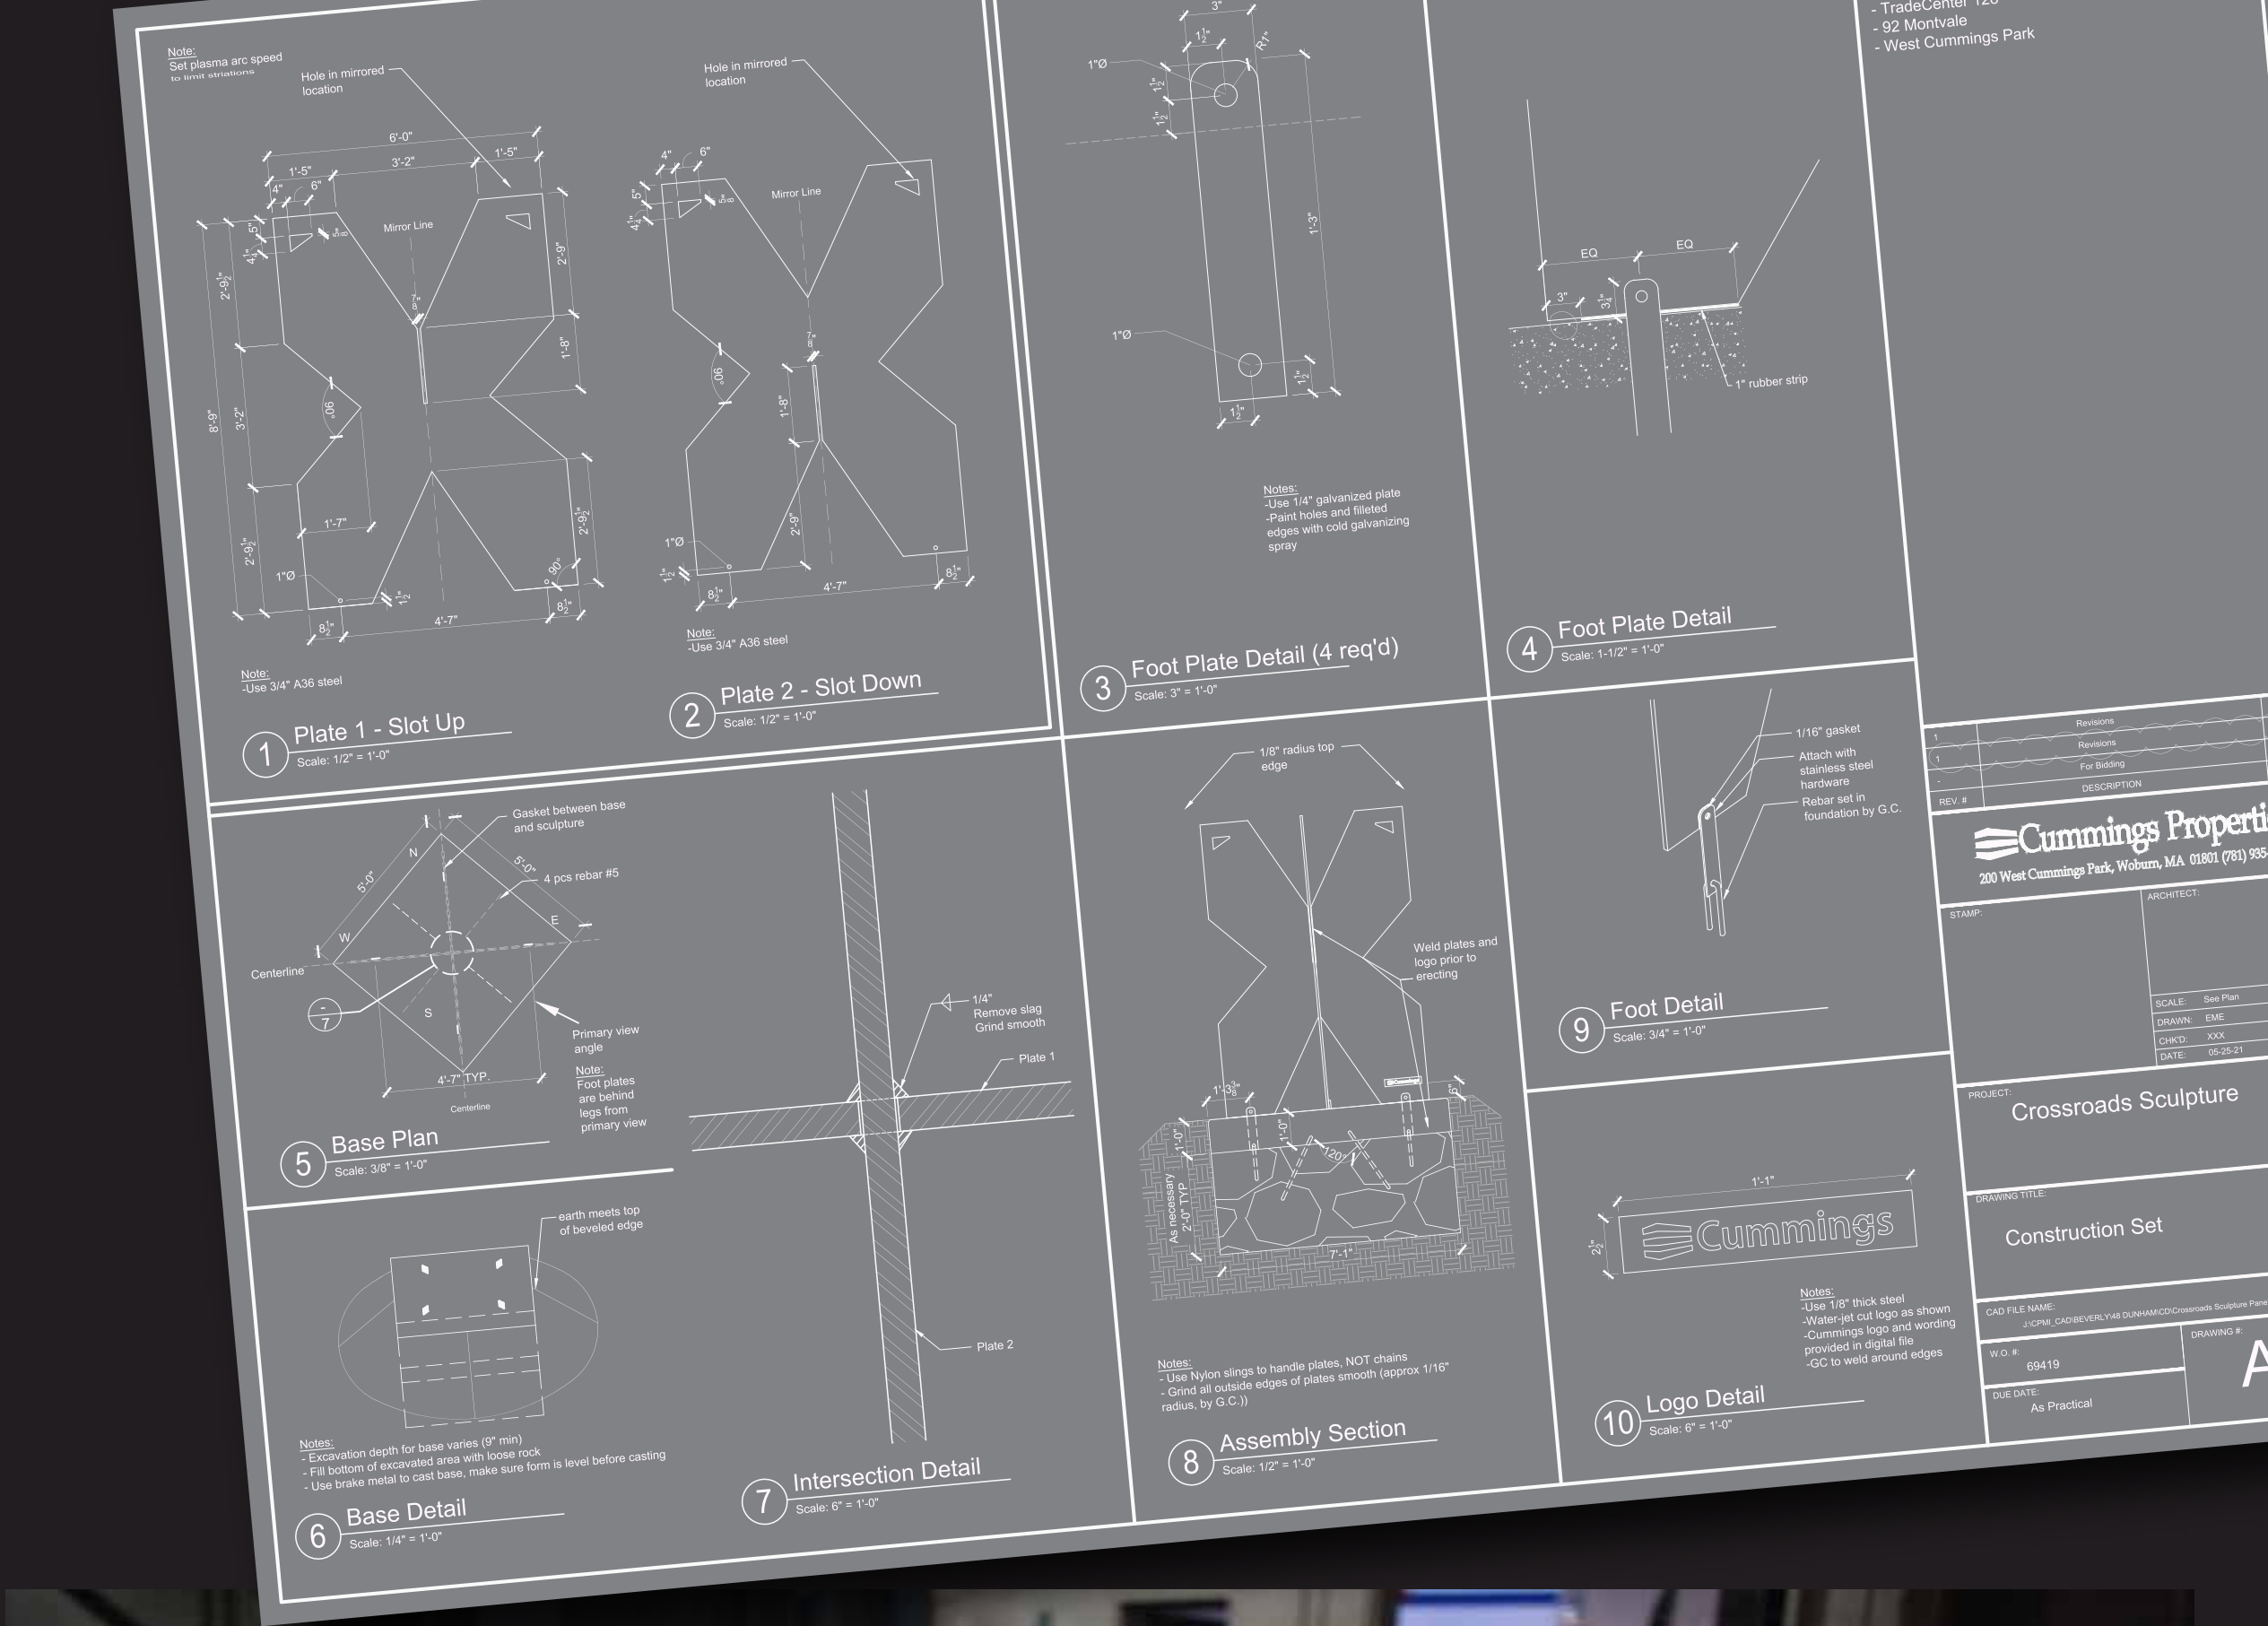

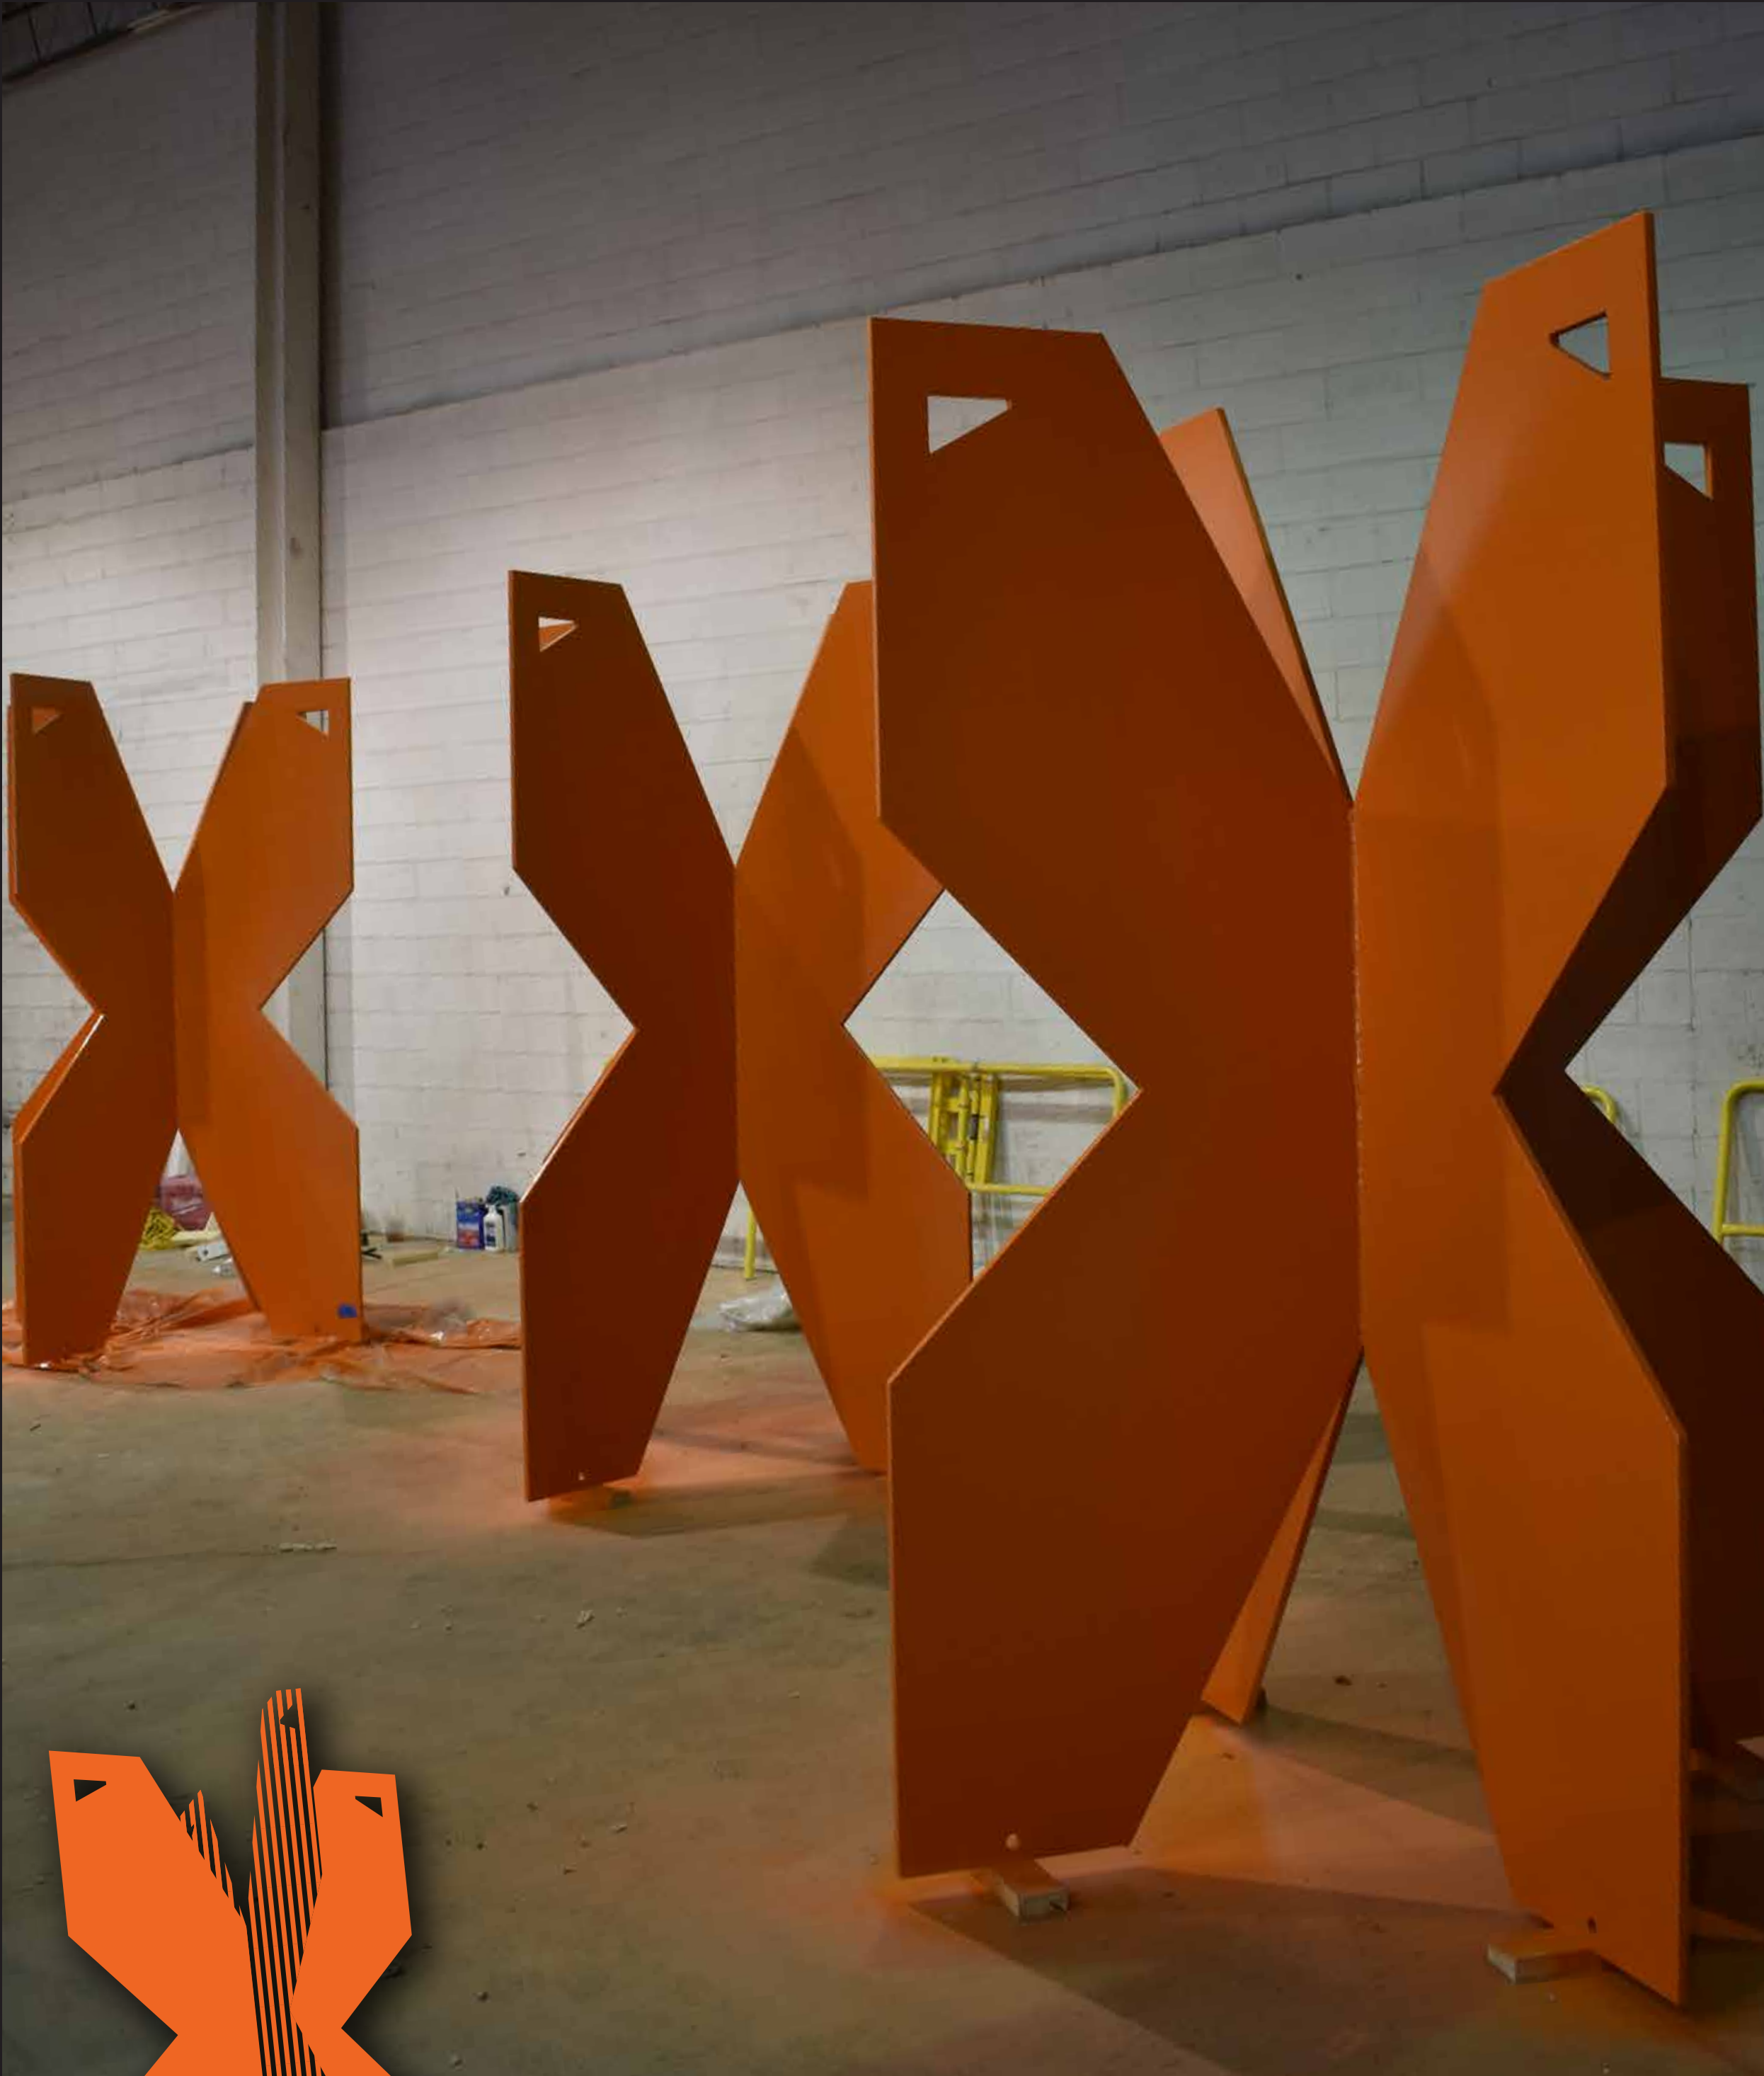

Leasing clients and their visitors have likely noticed a colorful new addition to the landscape at several Cummings campuses. Brightly hued Iron Butterfly® (or Ferro Papilio) monuments have now been installed at 12 locations throughout Cummings Properties' portfolio, with 10 more to be placed in the months to come.

These large-scale contemporary outdoor sculptures function as Cummings' newly adopted symbol of emergence, new life, and transformation. This symbolism feels especially appropriate during the Commonwealth's reopening, given the global mythology surrounding butterflies. In Navajo culture, for example, the butterfly is often considered a symbol of joy and resurgence. To the Hopi people, it signifies future abundance and health, and in Japan, it suggests longevity.

It is our sincere hope that these bold steel sculptures will help to brighten the days of all who behold them.
